E-makers is a project within the Erasmus+ program led by XUL Foundation from Spain, with the collaboration of the five European partners TDM 2000 INTERNATIONAL from Italy; IMPACT HUB ZAGREB from Croatia; SYGD from Turkey; and CIVES MUNDI from Spain

The project seeks to enhance social and environmental entrepreneurship activities through digital technologies. Digital transformation provides a parallel growth of socio-environmental and financial value for social enterprises. Therefore, sustainability can be achieved through the involvement of digital technologies.

What is coming?

LEARNING/TEACHING/TRAINING ACTIVITY

Our partner entity CIVES Mundi will welcome young people interested in social, digital, and environmental entrepreneurship between September 11 and 15 in Soria and Navarra, Spain. There, 16 young people from Spain, Turkey, Croatia, and Italy will live an enriching experience where, in addition to learning about social entrepreneurship, they will have a magnificent cultural experience.

Objective

The objective of the activity is to improve young people's social entrepreneurship skills and raise their awareness of environmental challenges. Through this mobility activity, young people will get to know other cultures and exchange knowledge and experiences while being trained in social entrepreneurship. In addition, young people will be encouraged to produce innovative ideas on environmental issues and to implement them through social enterprise models.

They will visit:

- The rural entrepreneurship and innovation ecosystem El Comunal led by Cives Mundi-El Hueco.
- Baku Barrikupel. A project based on eco- design dedicated to the design and manufacture of decorative elements from materials that have ended their useful life and are discarded. The main material reused are the wine barrels.
